A FIGHT!

The First Battle in Mexico is Bloody.

It Results in the Defeat of the Revolutionists Who Are Shot as Fast as Caught.

The Trial of Anarchists Proceeds at Chicago with Startling Stories.

A BATTLE ENSUES.

The Revolutionists Meet the Government Troops in Battle.

ST. LOUIS, July 19.—A special dispatch from Mattamoras, Mexico, says: "A private express from the Solecino ranch which reached here to-day stated that Adolfo Gonzals and Tapia, the revolutionary chiefs, with sixty men, learning that Col. Praejadis Cavajos had but twenty-five men with him at Encieniada, left to give him battle. Last evening it was reported that they had met the combined forces of Colonels Cavajos and Herandez, 126 strong, and had been signally defeated with a heavy loss in killed and wounded. Pedro Davila, Adolfo Gonzales and Tapia, with many of their followers are prisoners and all the bandits with the revolutionists being killed as soon as captured. There has been no reports as to the loss among the troops. Part of the revolutionists have taken refuge in an American cut-off above Santa Maria."

THE ANARCHISTS TRIAL.

A Wounded Officer Describes the Scene of the Hay Market Horror.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Judge Gary's court room was crowded this morning when the first witness, Lieutenant Stanton, one of the officers wounded at Hay Market, was placed upon the stand. The witness described in detail the events of the night of May 4th, and was asked concerning the two wounds he received. He saw the bomb in she air, heard the hissing of the fuse, which was about two inches long, saw the missile after it it struck the ground and to the best of his belief, it was about the size of his two fists put together.

Officer H. I. Kruger, of Lieutenant Stut's company was the next witness. He heard a voice say: "Here comes the bloodhounds," and thought that this remark was by the speaker who was addressing the meeting. Heard Freiden say, "We are peacable" I saw him draw a revolver and I am sure he fired two shots. He took aim behind a wagon. I returned his fire, then he started into the crowd and I shot at him again. I saw him limp off." Officer Jno. Wessler corroborates this witness.

A Steamer Ashore.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 19.—The steamer "Gate City," commanded by Captain Hedge, of the Boston and Savannah steamship line, while on a passage from Savannah to Boston, went ashore on the south side of the Island of Nashua in Vineyard sound last evening in a thick fog and now lies in about fifteen feet of water. Most of the passengers have been removed.

Suicide of a Military Officer.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Captain Gulian Vehlanck Weir, commanding battery M. fiifth artillery, Fort Hamilton, committed suicide last evening by shooting himself through the head. He had been suffering from bronchial affection and is supposed to have had some mental aberration.

Murdered for Money.

JANESVILLE, Wis,, July 19.—Henry Search, a wealthy farmer seventy-six years old, and his wife, living a mile and a half west of this city, were murdered last night for their money.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

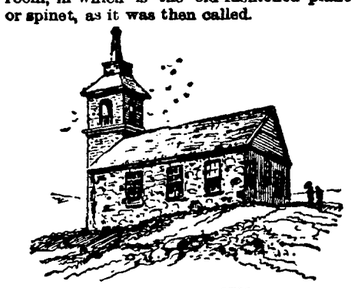

An Attractive Spot for Summer Tourist---Its Present Appearance.

Of all the quaint and picturesque towns which mark the sites chosen by the early settlers of America, one of the most ancient and conservative in appearance is certainly Portsmouth, N. H. Situated as it is, in an archipelago of hilly islands, it might have become one of the leading ports of entry but for the tremendous fogs, which have thrown a wet blanket on it as a commercial port. It certainly got an early enough start, for it was settled in 1623, and no town on the coast possessed greater natural advantages for a settlement. The numerous islands and surrounding country are fertile, while the waters of the innumerable creeks and inlets, worming their way inland from the sea, were alive with fish.

SPINET IN ROOM OF WENTWORTH HOUSE.

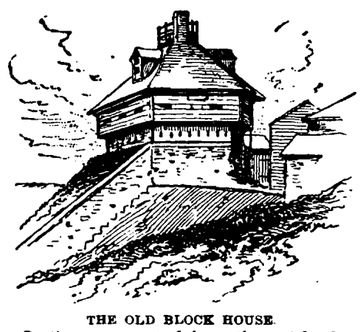

One of the earliest of the blue blood settlers was William Wentworth, a baronet. In 1639 he, with others, signed a "combination for a government at Exeter, N. H.," and from that time until the revolution he or his direct descendants held the political lines of the colony. For being too active politically one of the members of the family was beheaded for treason during George III's reign. A portion of the old Wentworth mansion still stands, and it was here that Governor Wentworth and Martha Hilton (immortalized by Longfellow in his "Lady Wentworth") were married. The parlor in which the ceremony took place remains unaltered. Most of the original pieces of furniture are yet in their places. In an interior room, appurtenanced as a private arsenal, still hang the massive flintlock blunderbusses and other weapons of early warfare. From here a door opens to the governor's council chamber. The walls of this famous apartment are covered with colonial bric-a-brac, including the ancestral warming pan. Adjoining this apartment is the billiard and music room, in which is the old-fashioned piano, or spinet, as it was then called.

OLD CHURCH, 1701.

This old manse of the Wentworths must be standing, or at least a portion of it, for a century and a half. An earlier settlement, though, than Portsmouth was made about nine miles from here on the Isle of Shoals. It was there that Capt. John Smith first set foot in making his early explorations, and the little seagirt neighborhood, treeless and almost verdureless, holds many traces of that ambitious man, besides the odd little monument erected there to his memory. Strange as it may seem, this bleak group of islands, soon after its discovery, became rapidly peopled, and it is affirmed that 500 inhabitants once had existence there. If one can take record from the shapes resembling graves, rudely marked by the rough island stones, the statement can't seem erroneous, but it appears in a different light when we wonder where the 500 found foothold at one and the same time, when now there seems scant soil for their graves.

The old stone church, erected in 1701, is one of the most appropriate monuments of the past. It contains records of all the early land grants, the census, etc., besides mention of the struggle to convert and educate the Indians, the perils of the colonial wars, and other facts that seem to us of this age as legendary as our fairy stories. At the breaking out of the revolution the inhabitants fled to the mainland for protection, and but few of the families ever returned to make the islands their place of abode.

THE OLD BLOCK HOUSE.

On the movement of the settlement farther from the sea the people prepared to protect themselves from both encroachments of the Indians and from foreign invaders, so that the defensive institutions of early Portsmouth were both numerous and ample, and many old earthworks yet remain. These, however, are less attractive than the old stone and mortar ones—McClary and Constitution. McClary tops a jutty prominence of Kittery point, and dates back 200 years. The old block house—rebuilt for its preservation in 1845—is a point of no light interest. It was a model of protection in its day, built with a projecting upper story with loopholes arranged so that the garrison could fire down on the enemy in case of an attack, but now merely an æsthetic finish for the modern fort at its base.

Portsmouth possesses, beside all this, the eldest newspaper in the United States, called The New Hampshire Gazette, established in 1756. Its excellent harbor was early recognized, on account of the neighboring timber, as a site for ship building. In 1690 the Falkland, fifty-four guns, was ordered built here by the British government. The Ranger, eighteen guns, Capt. Paul Jones, was also built here, under an order from the Continental congress. Even now it possesses a floating balance dry dock that cost our government about $1,000,000.

All told, there are few places on the continent that contain so many relics or subjects for reminiscences, nor is more worthy of visit by the summer tourist.

WILLIAM GILDER, journalist, Arctic voyager, and brother of the editor of the Century, is peculiarly interesting just now, writes a New York correspondent. He is about to set out again in search of the North Pole. He proposes to do it on his own hook. He asks no one to go with him, and he starts from this city entirely alone. Gilder may be theoretical, but he is also eminently practical. No man has had more experience in Arctic regions, and certainly no man has ever learned more by such experience. He spent two years with Schwatka in King William's Land in search of relics of the Franklin expedition, and he was on the Rogers when she was burned while she was seeking the Jeannette. He went across Siberia alone in the dead of winter, and telegraphed the first news of the destruction of the vessel to America. Gilder bases all his hopes of success on the Esquimaux. He lived with them on terms of perfect equality for two years, and he knows them thoroughly. He adopted their habits while living with them, eating walrus blubber, rubbing his body with oil and going for months without washing himself. The pores of the skin were thus kept closed, and he had no difficulty in keeping warm. The Esquimaux are kind, tractable, and exceeding hospitable. By adopting their suggestions and following their advice, Gilder and Schwatka traveled 3,251 miles in one sledge journey. The party withstood the lowest temperature ever experienced by explorers in the field. For sixteen days the thermometer was over 100 degrees below the freezing point. The party relied for food upon the exertions of the Esquimaux, and lived exclusively upon Esquimaux fare. Gilder became acclimated, and he speaks enthusiastically of his friends and associates among the tribes. His plan of operations is startling but plausible. He proposes to take with him 1,000 rounds of ammunition for breech-loaders and magazine guns and a small supply of rum and tobacco. He intends to take a passage on a Baffin's Bay whaler and land on King William's Land, where he will winter with the Esquimaux whom he left six years ago. He is satisfied that by the opening of the next summer he could organize a party who would be willing to follow him to Greenland in search of the pole. Lieutenant Lockwood, of Greely's party, went within 400 miles of the pole. He had no Esquimaux with him. Gilder is confident that with his tribe of Innuits he could reach the pole and return in eighty days from Greely's camp. He places his expenses at not more than $4,000. No more startling purpose in the way of exploration has been conceived since John Ledyard started to walk from New York to the Cape of Good Hope by the way of Behring's Straits.

THE man who probably claims the distinction of being the northernmost editor in the world is the printer and Esquimau poet, L. Moller, who edits the illustrated Esquimau paper, Atuagagliutit, published at Godthaab, a Danish colony on the west coast of Greenland, 64 degrees north latitude. This enterprising journalist joined the exploration of the interior of Greenland in order to be able to supply his paper with illustrated reports of the journey. Nordenskiold gives a portrait of Moller in his recently published work on Greenland, and the face looks remarkably intelligent and good-natured. His sketches, too, show considerable talent, being vivid and true to nature. The Esquimau editor is evidently an interesting man.

DANIEL R. ARNOLD is the station agent at Pawtucket. Recently the clerks and freight hands went to his office in a body, and the spokesman began a speech about the strikes out West and the relations of employers and employed, and was going on when Mr. Arnold very sternly and impatiently said: "State your grievance." The next moment he felt the cheapest of any man in New England, for the spokesman said the boys had come to make him a present on his fifty-seventh birthday. It was a nice present, but Mr. Arnold could hardly say "thank you," he was so surprised.

FOUR PEOPLE SHOT.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 19.—P. H. Monahan was engaged to Miss Laura Carney and she recently broke the engagement. Last night Miss Carney and some neighbors were sitting in the parlor singing when Monahan entered the room with a pistol in his hand, and, without a word, shot Miss Carney in the head. He then shot John Rice, the ball striking him in the abdomen. He next shot Mrs. Carney through the arm and John Clap, who attempted to disarm him, received a bullet through the hand. Stepping in the hall he shot himself in the head. His own wound and that of Miss Carney are perhaps fatal.

Shot His Little Sister.

BANGOR, Me., July 19.—Henry, the fifteen-year-old son of James A. Bicknell, shot and killed his sister, aged thirteen, yesterday. Not knowing a gun was loaded he playfully pointed it at her, when it exploded. The boy was rendered insane by the terrible affair.

Rain in Kansas.

KINGSLY, Kas., July 16.—An abundant rain fall occurred this morning and apparently covered a broad area of country.

The drought im Kansas has been the most severe since 1873, the last general rain having fallen in June. A dispatch from Aberdeen, Dak., states that the Jim River valley was relieved by a heavy rain yesterday.

A Big Fire.

ST. LOUIS, July 19.—The large lumber yard of Knapp, Stout, & Co., was totally destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon and 25,000,000 feet of lumber consumed. The company's stables were also consumed. The loss on lumber alone reaches $400,000. The total insurance is estimated at $375,000.

The loss by fire in the terra-cotta works at Ravenswood, Long Island, amounts to $60,000 and nearly 200 men will be thrown out of employment.

From St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, July 19.—The money received by the Cherokees from the cattle men for grazing purposes is now being distributed at Tahlequah. It amounts to $300,000, each full-blood receiving $15.95. A claim for a share is made by colored residents and the Delaware and Shawnee Indians.

Rev. Sam Jones spoke yesterday to ten thousand persons at a camp-meeting at Maryville, Missouri.

A Lafayette Gambler's Crime.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., July 19.—Edward Houser, proprietor of the leading gambling house here, struck Charles Pritchard, a painter, on the back of the head with a beer mallet at Riverside park last night, inflicting a dangerous and probably fatal wound. The park was crowded with sports and women of easy virtue, and the trouble arose over one of these frail creatures. Houser escaped and has not yet been arrested.

Washington News.

WASAINGTON, July 19.—The fortification appropriation bill which appropriates $620,000 for armament and repairs of the sea coast fortifications passed the house to-day. The senate took up the oleomargerine bill.

OMAHA dispatch: Two years ago Nellie Pugh, a daughter of Senator Pugh of Alabama, was married to Albert Elliot. The couple came to Omaha and resided here some months and then went to Council Bluffs. During the time they lived in Omaha and Council Bluffs it is said the wife was treated brutally and well-nigh starved to death. Her husband, it is also said, by force and confinement prevented her from communicating with her father. A few days ago the wife accidentally obtained an audience with George Wright of Council Bluffs, to whom she told her story and applied for assistance. Mr. Wright telegraphed to Senator Pugh, who had been unable to find any clew to the whereabouts of his daughter. Yesterday Senator Pugh's son arrived at Council Bluffs and obtained admittance to his sister's house. With a drawn revolver he advanced upon the husband, who escaped through the back door and came to Omaha. Young Pugh has left for Alahama, accompanied by his sister and her little girl.

SENATORS BECK AND VOORHEES have taken Mr. Gordon into their brotherhood of practical jokers, says a Washington letter-writer. Mr. Pugh, of Alabama, is the latest victim of this brilliant combination. President Sherman has lately adopted the plan of calling the younger Senators to the chair when he desires to rest, in order to give them practice as presiding officers. Senator Pugh, of Alabama, had hardly taken the chair, when a page handed him a note. It informed him that as soon as Senator Logan, who was then speaking, sat down a complicated point of order would be raised. He was requested to hold the chair against all comers and decide in favor of his party. The result of the communication was appalling. The big, good-humored Alabamian began to grow pale and made covert motions to John Sherman in the hope that he would relieve him. It is impossible to imagine that Mr. Sherman was in the plot, but it was some time before the anxious Chairman could catch his eye. He came to the rescue, and the three jokers adjourned to the cloak-room to roll on the floor. Mr. Pugh left a line on the desk for Mr. Sherman, it is said, reading: "Please don't ask me again."

TWENTY-SIX years ago Joseph Loth was an invited guest when the Putnam Phalanx of Hartford visited the grave of Gen. Putnam. At that time a subscription paper was circulated to secure a fund to erect a monument over "Old Put's" grave, and Mr. Loth put down his name for $10. He heard no more about the monument until last week, when he read that it was about to be erected. Thereupon he made good his subscription by sending $10 to Adjutant Tyler, of the Putnam Phalanx.

JOHN CAROTHERS, while burning brush near Akron, O., caught his foot in a brush heap, and was in danger of being burned to death. His yells brought a man, who said: "Pay me the $5 you owe me and I'll help you out." Carothers insisted that he didn't owe any $5. "All right, burn then," said the man, and he walked away. Carothers then by frantic efforts released himself, but not before he was badly scorched.

Rev. Father Messman, of St. Peters church, has gone to Newton and Benton counties, the scenes of his former missionary labors.

He was married.

Mr. Gladstone's servants are packing up his furniture, books and papers in his official residence in Downing street, preparatory to moving. The Marquis of Saulsbury, who has been sojourning at Royal, France, has left for Dieppe, en route to England.

Lord Randolph Churchill has been summoned home by telegraph and has started for London.

Funeral Services Interrupted by Lightning.

NYACK, N. Y., July 19.—While the body of a young lady was being interred in Oak Hill cemetery, Rockland county, yesterday, a large tree standing near the grave was struck by lightning, causing a panic among the mourners, some of whom wept and prayed, while others rushed terror stricken from the spot. After awhile the interment proceeded with and the body was placed in the earth amid a terrible war of the elements.

Almost Burned Up.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A fire between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning, in a stationery store of Jesse Wolf, at 551 East Sixteenth street, occasioned great alarm in a four-story tenement house occupied by eight families, numbering about seventy people. Mrs. Moore fell from a fire escape and will probably die. Two children were rescued by policeman Cox, half suffocated.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Wheat, closed strong and higher; cash, 78c; August, 79c. Corn, a shade easier; cash, 38⅝c; August 39⅛c. Oats, higher, at 29½c.

CHICAGO MARKET.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Wheat, a trifle better, but only moderately active; No. 2 red, August, 87⅛@87⅛c. Corn, ⅛@⅜c lower, and heavy. Oats, firm and quiet at 36@44c.

SINGULARLY enough, while the Government is active in its suppression of polygamy, it has not yet taken notice of the fact that for years Sitting Bull, the redoubtable Sioux chief, has lived with two wives. They are both shapely, good-looking squaws, and seem to be utterly free from jealousy, being jointly proud of their lord and master. The chief's children are petted just as much by one wife as the other.

MRS. FRANCIS, who died a few days ago at Atlanta, Ga., was worth $40,000. A few years ago she owned but a single cow. With this capital she began a dairy business. Success attended her efforts, and after a time she purchased several more cows, all the time doing the work herself. After milking the cows she would prepare the milk for market and deliver it to customers. She invested the money as fast as she made it, and her investments proved so good that she was enabled to spend the latter part of her life in ease.

TAKE SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the

Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. COMMON COUNCIL.

Proceedings of the Local Legislature in Regular Session.

REPORT OF CITY TREASURER.

I hereby report that I have paid to Charlotte Taber the sum of $300 damages assessed to her on the widening of Brackenridge street. I have also made legal tender of $70 to Henry Horstmeyer for his damages, which tender has been refused and the money is in my possession now. I therefore ask for further instructions and the council to take such actions as are required by law

HENRY C. BERGHOFF,
City Treasurer.

Referred to city attorney.

REPORT OF TRUSTEES OF THE WATER WORKS.

The board of county commissioners have ordered us to remove the water mains which are laid across river bridge on west Main street. We respectfully ask that your honorable body condemn the grounds on each side of the river so that we may be able to carry out their instructions. The cost of making said change will be about one thousand dollars. As it is their desire that the work be done in the near future, we trust that you will give it your immediate attention.

Referred to committee on water works and city attorney.

Hereto attached is a communication from Rt. Rev. Joseph Dwenger, bishop of Fort Wayne, asking that the water main on Wells street be extended from Fourth street to Archer avenue.

Referred to committee on water works.

To the Honorable Trustees of the Fort Wayne Water Works.

Gentlemen: You are perfectly aware that I am building a large and beautiful orphan asylum in the north side of the city. I need not explain to you the noble object of the institution, neither is it necessary to point out to you the grandeur of the building as a public improvement. I would like to use the city water works in the building, when completed and ready for occupancy, which I expect will be about this time next year. I could not expect the city to extend the water mains on Wells street for the sole purpose of the new orphan asylum, but as a considerable number of our citizens live on Wells street, and west thereof; inasmuch as the city will be forced to extend said mains in the near future as a fire protection because the feeder is often nearly dry, and because this extension will be a public necessity. I most respectfully request your honorable body to take such steps as may be necessary for this extension. Respectfully submitted.

JOSEPH DWENGER,
Bishop of Fort Wayne.

REPORT OF STREET COMMISSIONER.

I wish to report as follows:

1st. The wooden top on fire cistern on the corner of Pritchard anp Rockhill is in a dangerous condition. I fenced it off from travel for fear of accident.

2d. In the matter of resolution of Councilman Woulfe in relation to the cleaning of the Baker street sewer between Fairfield avenue to the end of said sewer on the south line of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad, I would respectfully report that part of said sewer above named cannot well be cleaned until all that part of same sewer running south from the railroad through the open field is first cleaned out to give an outlet to the water remaining in the covered sewer. To do the latter work would require the labor I think of six or seven men perhaps ten days, or an expenpiture of $80 or $100.

3d. I would recommend that the city lumber yard be fenced.

DENNIS O'BRIEN,
Street Commissioner.

Referred to the committee on streets.

REPORT OF CITY CIVIL ENGINEER.

I will respectsully report that the Calhoun street improvement is not progressing satisfactory, very little if anything being done for the last two weeks. I have directed and urged the contractor, John A. Kaylor, to to proceed with the work, but without affect, and the work is yet at a stand still. All other contracts for sewers, sidewalks etc., are progressing.

J. S. GOSHORN,
City Civil Engineer.

Referred to the committee on streets and city attorney.

REPORT OF CITY CIVIL ENGINEER.

In the matter of extending the Clinton street sewer from its outlet at the intersection with Duck street; thence via Duck street to the St. Mary's river, east, or to make the change on Superior street, and extend the Clinton street sewer via Superior street and Lafayette street to the St. Marys river, referred to me for estimated cash, etc., will report that the approximate estimate of the cost of a double ring brick sewer three (3) feet in diameter, on Duck street, from Clinton to Barr street, and enlarged at Barr street, so as to take the sewerage from the Barr street sewer to the St. Mary's river; total length of sewer, including Barr street connection, 695 lenial feet, approximate cost, $1,965. And for a sewer of the same dimensions, via Superior and Lafayette streets, with Barr street sewer connections, total length 992 feet, the cost of construction the same per lenial foot as that on Duck street, will approximate $3,041. Respectfully submitted. J. S. GOSHEN,
City Civil Engineer.

Referred to committee on sewers with instructions to make recommendations at the next regular meeting.

REPORT OF CITY WEIGHMASTER.

I respectfully report that I have collected and paid to the treasurer eighty-six dollars for the month of June, 1886.

PATRICK RYAN.

Upon motion of Michaels, the mayor, city attorney and street committee were instructed to close contracts with John McMahon, which contract had been reported on favorably by the street committee, but had not been presented to the council to-night.

THE main purpose of a summer vacation, says the Baltimore American, is comfort, but comfort cannot be secured by several trunkfuls of new dresses and new millinery. Inordinate dressing may gratify a foolish vanity, but it will not secure physical pleasure or contentment. Of late years the best people have shown a wise determination to stop this silly display of fashion at summer resorts. The butterflies of fashion may still attempt to rival the lilies of the field and the rainbows of the sky in colors and combinations of color, but the people of common sense, of culture, and of refinement dress plainly and comfortably. When people go away on their annual holidays, therefore, they should take only what clothes they will need. Novices in travel are always known by the large amount of unnecessary baggage with which they burden themselves. Plain dressing has so many benefits that it is useless to mention them. Without it that free abandon, that careless, happy-go-lucky feeling which every summer health-seeker likes to experience, cannot exist. To a person dressed up like a fashion-plate, or to those who change their costumes three or four times a day—especially a hot day—complete happiness or comfort is out of the question. If you want to enjoy your vacation be sure not to overdress yourself.

A PROMINENT Western Senator went up to the White House as an escort of a Democratic leader of his State, says a Washington correspondent. In opening the conversation the leader began to say that he had been watching the development of the policy of the administration with great interest and anxiety, when the President interrupted him with the question: "And what do you think of it?" "I think you have pursued a wise and statesman-like course, Mr. President, a very wise and statesman-like course; but the time has come for you to take decided action, and go a little further and faster, Mr. President, a little further and faster." "What do you mean?" inquired the President. "I mean that you should show your Democracy and encourage the party by turning out more Republicans and appointing more Democrats to office. We hope to see you go a little further and faster in this direction, Mr. Cleveland, a little further and faster." "That is," responded the President, "you want me to appoint two horse thieves a day instead of one!" This shot the bull's-eye. The President had a good memory, and happened to recall, while he was listening to the counsel of the Western leader, that upon his recommendation he had appointed a man to office who afterward turned out to have been once convicted of stealing horses.

THE STAGE.

Gossip and Gleanings About Plays, Play-Houses, and Players.

FACTS ABOUT MARY ANDERSON.

Joe Jefferson at His Southern Home—An Easily Amused Public — Thomas Doggett—Stage Gossip.

Facts About Mary.

A reporter who leaned over the desk in the Windsor rotunda was told that the "very English" young man lounging near him was Mr. Frank Griffin, half-brother of Miss Mary Anderson, the actress. He is a tall, slender young man, possibly 22 years of age, and in appearance not at all unlike Mr. Forbes-Robertson, Miss Anderson's leading man, as he looks when off the stage. He is tall and very slight, wearing his black hair rather long, and having a long face, a slender, aquiline nose, and a pair of burning black eyes. Mr. Griffin talked about Miss Anderson much as other brothers talk about their sisters.

"Has Miss Anderson bought a ranch in Colorado, Mr. Griffin?" asked the reporter.

"O! no indeed," replied Mr. Griffin. "What an absurd idea! Now what would Mamie want with a ranch, I should like to know?" (this with a long English drawl). "I presume that the wiseacres say that Mamie is buying the ranch, but it isn't the case. Why, I'm buying it myself, at least the 'Governor' is buying it for me, and it will be just the same as mine. Mamie has promised herself now to leave the stage for a year—retire, rest, and all that sort of thing, you know—but I don't believe she will. I've seen her try it before, and she rested just two weeks out of the year in which she had planned to do nothing. She is so active she can't quit work, and she studies half the time, and really works harder than is necessary."

"Do you think Miss Anderson is an enthusiast in her art?"

"Well, I presume that's what you would call it, and I know she had a hard enough struggle to get where she is. I tell you she made a big fight for her success. She went on the stage when she had never had but ten lessons, and worked herself up without much help. She is very industrious."

"Has she any decided tastes outside of her profession?"

"She plays very well; that is all she does, I believe."

"Miss Anderson is very religious, is she not?"

"Well, I should say she is," ejaculated Mr. Griffin. "All the family are afflicted with that malady except me."

"Seriously speaking, why don't Miss Anderson have any lovers?"

"Well, you see," said the young man, "Mamie never will look at a man unless he is twice the age of Methusaleh. No man would ever attract her unless he were some dusty old bookworm. She thinks all young men are necessarily fools. No, I think it would be impossible for Mamie to love any man."

"Miss Anderson is still young, is she not?"

"Mamie is 27 years old, and looks her age, every day of it. She has been on the stage eleven years, and has worked hard, as I said a minute ago.—Denver Tribune.

Thomas Doggett.

This actor, who was before the public from 1691 to 1712, was born in Castle street, Dublin, in 1670. He made his first theatrical attempt in his native city, but not meeting with much encouragement there, he came to England and joined a traveling company, from which he soon removed to London and established himself at Drury Lane. His admirable performance of Solon in Tom D'Urfey's "Marriage-Hater" first brought him into notice. Congreve wrote for him the parts of Fondlewife in "The Old Bachelor" and Ben in "Love for Love." When the new theater in Lincoln's Inn Fields was built and opened under the auspices of Betterton, Doggett withdrew from Drury Lane. He was a partner with Wilks and Cibber in Drury Lane, at which theater he acquired a great reputation. Although not a handsome man, his countenance was animated and agreeable. Tony Aston describes him as a little, lively, spract man." Colley Cibber says that as an actor he was the most original, and the strictest observer of nature, of all his contemporaries. "He borrowed from none of them; his manner was his own; he was a pattern to others, whose great merit was that they had sometimes tolerably imitated him." In dressing a character to the utmost exactness he could be remarkably skillful; the least article of whatever habit he wore served in some degree to speak and mark the different humor he presented. A particular account of his dress in the part of Moneytrap in "The Confederacy" has been recorded. In this admirable representation of an old debauched usurer, he is said to have worn a threadbare, black coat, to which he had put new cuffs, pocket-lids, and buttons on purpose to make the rustiness of the coat the more apparent; the neck was stuffed to make him appear round-shouldered and give his head the greater prominence; and his square-toed shoes were large enough to buckle over those he generally wore so that his legs appeared much smaller than usual. He could be extremely ridiculous without stepping into the least impropriety to do so. His greatest success was in characters taken from low life. In the singing of humorous songs he had no competitor, and, says Aston, "he danced the 'Cheshire boards' full as well as the famous Captain George."

Mr. Jefferson at Home.

The following from a Mississippi paper will be read with interest:

On an island of many thousand acres of level land, spreading out, as it seems to the eye, to the very verge of the horizon, with placid lakes and orange groves and nectarines and figs, with other fruits of the tropics, lives Joe Jefferson, old "Rip Van Winkle," who once lived at Grand Gulf, Miss., long before he owned his trusty gun or his faithful dog Snyder.

We had a conversation with our venerable lady friend, Mrs. Sarah K. Sevier, a day or so ago, during which she gave us an interesting sketch of her late journey among friends in Louisiana. She met many who were once accustomed to walk the shady avenues of our little town, and all of them inquired after the old place with affectionate interest.

Among the many she met was our once dear old neighbor and friend, Mrs. Dr. Abbay, and the jolly little Major, Dr. Sid.

She paid a visit to Orange Island, the elegant retired home of "Old Rip Van Winkle," Joe Jefferson, and was delighted with the intelligent and affable owner of the 8,000 acres of splendid landscapes and orange groves who is happy for having made everybody else happy. He brought out his aged wines, which our old prohibition friend might have barely tasted just to see how wine a century old "did" taste. In parting, our always thoughtful friend, said: "Mr. Jefferson, I would like to invite you to visit Port Gibson, but it's too small a place to be of interest to you." "Not so, madame," said Old Rip. "I have been in Port Gibson, and I lived a year when a boy at Grand Gulf with my mother." When the final parting took place our lady friend, who is always ready to talk religion, said: "Well, Mr. Jefferson, we shall not meet again on earth; I hope we'll meet in heaven." "Oh, yes, madam," said Old Rip. "I'll be certain to be there. We're bound to meet in heaven." Imagine the twinkle in Old Rip's eye. Our venerable lady friend said on leaving him: "Well, sir, I have never been a theater-goer, but I can say that I have conversed with two of the greatest actors of this or any age." "Ah," said Mr. Jefferson, "and who were they?" "One," she said, "was the elder Booth—the other, Mr. Joe Jefferson," and the tete-a-tete ended.

An Easily Amused Public.

Said J. W. McAndrews, the "Watermelon Man": "It is funny how the public cling to certain performers on the stage and to certain acts. They have compelled me to keep on doing my watermelon act ever since May 18, 1866. I produced it then at Cincinnati, when I was with Dan Bryant. I had been pretty hard run to find something new, and hit upon the idea of representing an old negro watermelon man I used to know in Louisville, who occasionally had a load of 'Barcarlingoes' on the levee, which he sold. I had a pretty fair idea of what I wanted to do, but couldn't get any plot—any way of getting on or off the stage. So I consulted my wife, who told me to just go on and holler, and make a fool of myself generally, and when I got through to come off the best way I could. I followed her advice, and the act was a great success—so great, in fact, that the people haven't got tired of it yet, and I have been doing it for twenty years. It once ran at the same theater in New York, night after night, for three and a half years."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Stage Gossip.

FRANK MAYO will not confine his efforts to "Nordeck" alone next season, but will also produce the "Three Guardsmen," himself appearing as D'Artagnan.

ROLAND REED denies the rumor that he will tour the country next season in comic opera. Notwithstanding his success in the "Bridal Trap," he will do only "Cheek" and "Humbug," which he says the people want.

CHARLES POPE has been threatened with a law suit by the owners of McCullough's version of the "Gladiator" if he puts that play in his repertoire next season. Mr. Pope claims his version to be that used by Salvini.

LOUIS JAMES will produce "Virginius" at McVicker's Theater, Chicago, in August, and will endeavor to make that play his "piece de resistance." McCullough's successor in that character has not as yet been found, and Mr. James may be the man.

That Tired Feeling

The warm weather has a debilitating effect, especially upon those who are within doors most of the time. The peculiar, yet common, complaint known as "that tired feeling," is the result. This feeling can be entirely overcome by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives new life and strength to all the functions of the body.

"I could not sleep; had no appetite. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling; and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, Ohio.

Strengther the System

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

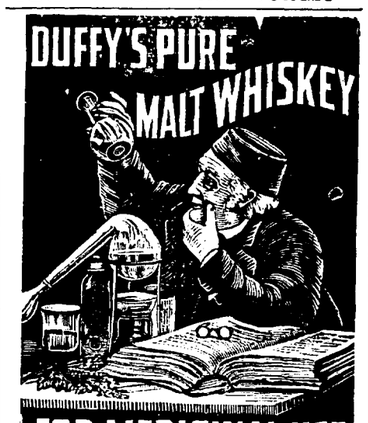

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Great Reduction in Prices for 1886.

Goods are so low now that it can hardly be expected that there will be any further decline, so that those laying in full suppiies will not likely be disappointed.

Coffee Down 2c, Tea Down 10c, Sugars Cown 1-2c, Syrups Down 10c, Turkish Prunes Down 1c.

Best Rio Coffee down to 10c a pound; good Rio coffee down to 8c a pound; best Roasted Rio down to 12½c a pound; Government Java, 20c.; Roasted Java 25c.

TEAS Reduced in Proportion.

s no more a luxury to buy Teas. When they were $1 and $2 per pound then of course the consumption of them was small, but now the price is so low that a good Tea can be bought at 20c per pound then they come within the reach of all.

We are enabled to sell so low simply in consequence of our immense trade. At times we sell two and three chests daily, and buying direct of the importers and selling direct to the consumers, enables us to save our customers the profits of the jobber, speculator and wholesale merchant which is at least 10 to 20 per pound.

Young Hyson, good, 20c; choice, 30c; best 50c; Gunpowder, good, 30c; choice, 40; best 50c; Oolong or Black Tea 20c; choice, 30c; best 50c; Japan Tea, uncolored, 35c; choice, 40; best 50c; English Breakfast, good, 20c; best 50c per pound.

SUGARS---White and Yellow, Down 1-2c.

Choice Yellow, 5½c.; Best Extra C, 6c.; Coffee A, Standard, 6½c.; Crushed and Powdered 7½c.; Cut Loaf and Granulated, 7½c.

Syrups Reduced 10c a Gal.

Best Golden Drip, 40c per gallon; best Sorghum, 40c per gallon; best New Orleans, Molasses, 30c.

SMOKED MEATS AND PICKLED PORKS.

Best sugar cured hams, 12c per pound; Sugar cured shoulders, 8c per pound; Pickeled pork 6c per pound; Breakfast bacon, best, 9c per pound.

Fish Oil, Lard Oil, Neats Foot Oil, Machine Oils and Head Light

Neats Foot Oil, 80c gallon; Fish Oil, 70c gallon; Headlight oil, 12c gallon; machine Oil dark, 20c gallon; Golden machine oil, 30c gallon; Castor Oil, $1.75 pe gallon.

WINES AND LIQUORS.

Old 76 Whisky for medical use, $2.50 per gallon; two-year old, $1.75; one-year old, $1.40; good new whisky, $1.50 and $1 per gallon; California wine, Muscoted and Angelico, 40c bottle; Port Wine per gallon, $1.25; gallon Cataubа wine, $1; gallon Old Tom Gin, 40c; bottle Canada malt, 39c.

Candies Down---Stick and Mixed Reduced 2c per Pound.

Pure Stick Candy, 10c. per pound; French Mixed Candy, down to 10c; Bon Bons, 20c; Gum Drops, 10c; Imperials and Chocolate down to 15c per pound.

The Greatest Reduction of all is on Turkish Pruens.

Who ever heard of them selling at 4c per pound. The crop is so large at they don't pay freight and duty to ship to New York. The very best new fruit 4c per pound; new Valencia Raisins, 10c. a pound; Seedless Sultana Raisins, 12½c; best Leghorn Citron, 30c; new dried apples, 4c per pound; new dried peaches, 5c. per pound.

Michael Sweeney, a lodger at the station house, had the snakes Saturday night. George Englert was in the same cell and was bordering on 'em. Between the two there was a lively time. Animals that would make Barnum turn green with envy skipped before Sweeney's mind. He thought Englert had scales on, and Englert thought so too, for he begged for "der Lord's sake to take him out." Sweeney has had the delirium tremens seven times.

The Gazette seems to think that because we are advocating the enforcement of the cow ordinance, we are sitting down on the laboring man. Nothing of the kind. We think the laboring man is just as good as anybody, but no better. We are all laboring at something and should all stand on an equal footing. The cow ordinance as passed by the council is right and should be protected. We want no "monkeying with the band wagon" in this case. Open the door one foot to those men who are running dairies in our midst, and in a short time our streets will be crowded with cows.

Mr. C. A. Bookwalter is now foreman and telegraph editor of the Gazette.

Colonel Sam B. Sweet and M. M. Barnes, of the Wabash, were in the city yesterday.

Have you seen the Battle of Gettysburg? It is worth an hour of any man's life.

Rev. J. H. Oechtering and Dr. John S. Irvin make announcements to contractors and builders.

Daniel Komp and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Beaber left for Chicago to-day to attend the funeral of John Komp.

Another attempt was made to lynch Bill Haley, by Ohio people, but Bill who is known here, still lives.

The Battle of Gettysburg continues to be a great attraction and the old soldiers go into ecstacies over the scenes.

The American Express company's agent is now authorized to issue money orders payable at almost any point in Europe at very cheap rates. An order for $10 or less costs only ten cents, and one for $50 only 45 cents.

TWO ROBBERIES.

A Theiving Clerk at the Oliver House—Patrick Coolican Robbed.

Sunday morning a young man named Scanlon, of Toledo, adjourned to the Oliver House for breakfast. He handed the clerk, Elmore McCartney, a twenty dollar bill and the assistant host went out to get change. The youth fled up an alley way and his flight must have been premeditated, as he took a watch chain and other trinkets with him. Mike Wickliffe made good Scanlon's loss and sent an officer after McCartney, who walked to Adams station and was booked for Lima, Ohio. The young fellow used to be a cow boy, but of late has worked for ex-Sheriff John McCartney, out in the country.

A sneak thief got into the residence of Patrick Coolican, in the sixth ward, Saturday night and stole about ten dollars. Other houses in the neighborhood were entered but nothing is missing.

POLICE COURT.

The Celebrities Who Were Arraigned Before the Mayor.

There was a mammoth police court this morning and some twenty-five offenders were present in person or in boodle, to answer Mayor Muhler's roll call. The interest of the sporting fraternity was elicited, from the fact that Capt. Hugh M. Diehl and a posse raided two gambling houses, of the second class variety. Saturday night Captain Diehl stepped into a gaming room over Fred. Meyer's saloon at 104 Calhoun street. Twelve young men were playing poker and there was a sensation, to say the least, when the chief said, "Come gentlemen, I want you." The fellows are well known about town and eight of them put up money.

Last night Captain Diehl strolled into a parlor over the Crystal Palace saloon and found four men at a social game of poker. They effected great indignation, but three of them "put up." This room is kept by Sam Bune, over C. W. Kline's saloon. The latter gentlemen will be arrested for keeping and renting a gambling room.

Max Staup and Chas. Bender had a fight at the English Kitchen Sunday morning and after a few neat rounds, fled at the approach of Officer O'Connell, who has their hats as a trophy of the chase.

This is the program of the morning and is verbatim from the records:

George Englert—drunk—Meyer.
John Deam—drunk—Humbrecht.
James O'Shaughnessy—drunk—Humbrecht.

Ben F. Breman, Oscar Harris, Geo. Mason, Wm. Brooks, Chas. Long, Fred Walters, Fred Harrison, James Steadly, Charles Farrell, Chas. Silvers, Chas. Waltman and John White gamblers at the Ferd Meyers room.

John Doe, Geo. Johnson, Justice Brown and Chas. Shaffer gambling at the Cristal Palace rooms.

Fred Engleking—drunk—O'Connell.
John Morgan—vagrant—Limecooly.
Denny Ryan—drunk—Fuchshuber.
Tom Martin—drunk—Fuchshuber.

Justice France fined Clara Bogus for provoke on the Nicholson woman, and Kate Broekelman paid $11.50 for provoke and then Constable Cook closed the festivities by arresting Ellen Cook for provoke on Mary Hedges. This is a sixth ward quarrel and Justice France smiles as he hears the women rip characters straight up and down.

EXPRESS ROBBERIES.

How the Famous Trial in Fort Wayne was Won.

Cincinnati Enquirer:—"That express robbery is as much a mystery as ever," remarked Mr. J. C. Stainton, agent of the United States Express company "and as far as I know the company has never obtained a clue to the missing $10,000. The suit which the Van Wert bank has brought against us may bring something to light. It is to be hoped that the company will not lose this case, as it did in the celebrated Bluffton case, where $5,000 was lost between the First National bank of this city and the Bluffton, Ind., bank, tried at Fort Wayne, to which it was consigned. In that case judgment was given against the company because a young man at Muncie, Ind., who handled the package, could not account for a rather large sum of money which he was known to have invested about the time the $5,000 was lost. His name was Ritchie, and he was the transfer man at Muncie. He did not have the package in his possession five minutes, and the company knew that he could not have tampered with it if he had wanted to, but on the trial it was proved that he had been investing money in rather larger sums than he was supposed to possess, and when he was put upon the witness-stand he could not tell where the money came from. This suspicious circumstance was sufficient for the jury and a judgment was given in favor of the bank. It was not until several years afterward when a settlement had been made with the bank that Ritchie told how he got the money. He had a friend, a rich young fellow about Muncie, who was very much embarrassed by the importunities of a young girl whom he had wronged. She demanded reparation by marriage, and he, not wishing to make such an alliance, went to Ritchie and asked him to arrange a settlement. The expressman assented, and, after several visits to the girl, assured his friend that the best terms he could obtain were $3,000 cash. After some hesitation the rich young man assented to a compromise on that basis, and turned over the $3,000 to Ritchie, who it seems handed over $600 to the girl and pocketed the difference. When he was called upon to explain where he got the money which he had been investing, he could not do so without betraying his own perfidy and at the same time exposing his friend, who had, since the settlement with the girl, married a most estimable young lady. Thus his trickery was the cause of the company losing the suit."

A FIGHT!

The First Battle in Mexico is Bloody.

It Results in the Defeat of the Revolutionists Who Are Shot as Fast as Caught.

The Trial of Anarchists Proceeds at Chicago with Startling Stories.

A BATTLE ENSUES.

The Revolutionists Meet the Government Troops in Battle.

ST. LOUIS, July 19.—A special dispatch from Mattamoras, Mexico, says: "A private express from the Solecino ranch which reached here to-day stated that Adolfo Gonzals and Tapia, the revolutionary chiefs, with sixty men, learning that Col. Praejadis Cavajos had but twenty-five men with him at Encienisda, left to give him battle. Last evening it was reported that they had met the combined forces of Colonels Cavajos and Hernandez, 126 strong, and had been signally defeated with a heavy loss in killed and wounded. Pedro Davila, Adolfo Gonzales and Tapia, with many of their followers are prisoners and all the bandits with the revolutionists being killed as soon as captured. There has been no reports as to the loss among the troops. Part of the revolutionists have taken refuge in an American cut-off above Santa Maria."

THE ANARCHISTS TRIAL.

A Wounded Officer Describes the Scene of the Hay Market Horror.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Judge Gary's court room was crowded this morning when the first witness, Lieutenant Stanton, one of the officers wounded at Hay Market, was placed upon the stand. The witness described in detail the events of the night of May 4th, and was asked concerning the two wounds he received. He saw the bomb in the air, heard the hissing of the fuse, which was about two inches long, saw the missile after it it struck the ground and to the best of his belief, it was about the size of his two fists put together.

Officer H. I. Kruger, of Lieutenant Stut's company was the next witness. He heard a voice say: "Here comes the bloodhounds," and thought that this remark was by the speaker who was addressing the meeting. Heard Freiden say, "We are peaceable" Isaw him draw a revolver and I am sure he fired two shots. He took aim behind a wagon. I returned his fire, then he started into the crowd and I shot at him again. I saw him limp off." Officer Jno. Wessler corroborates this witness.

A Steamer Ashore.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 19.—The steamer "Gate City," commanded by Captain Hedge, of the Boston and Savannah steamship line, while on a passage from Savannah to Boston, went ashore on the south side of the Island of Nashua in Vineyard sound last evening in a thick fog and now lies in about fifteen feet of water. Most of the passengers have been removed.

Suicide of a Military Officer.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Captain Gulian Verplanck Weir, commanding battery M. fifth artillery, Fort Hamilton, committed suicide last evening by shooting himself through the head. He had been suffering from bronchial affection and is supposed to have had some mental aberration.

Murdered for Money.

JANESVILLE, Wis., July 19.—Henry Scaroh, a wealthy farmer seventy-six years old, and his wife, living a mile and a half west of this city, were murdered last night for their money.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

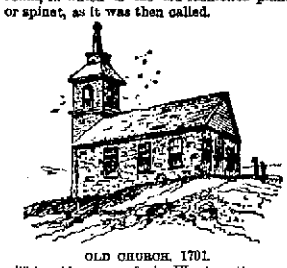

An Attractive Spot for Summer Tourist---Its Present Appearance.

Of all the quaint and picturesque towns which mark the sites chosen by the early settlers of America, one of the most ancient and conservative in appearance is certainly Portsmouth, N. H. Situated as it is, in an archipelago of hilly islands, it might have become one of the leading ports of entry but for the tremendous fogs, which have thrown a wet blanket on it as a commercial port. It certainly got an early enough start, for it was settled in 1623, and no town on the coast possessed greater natural advantages for a settlement. The numerous islands and surrounding country are fertile, while the waters of the innumerable creeks and inlets, worming their way inland from the sea, were alive with fish.

SPIKET IN ROOM OF WENTWORTH HOUSE.

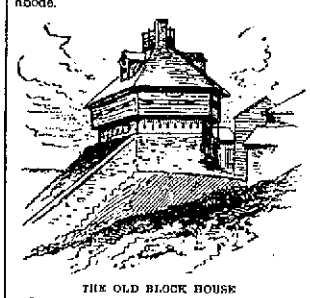

One of the earliest of the blue blood settlers was William Wentworth, a baronet. In 1639 he, with others, signed a "combination for a government at Exeter, N. H.," and from that time until the revolution he or his direct descendants held the political lines of the colony. For being too active politically one of the members of the family was beheaded for treason during George III's reign. A portion of the old Wentworth mansion still stands, and it was here that Governor Wentworth and Martha Hilton (immortalized by Longfellow in his "Lady Wentworth") were married. The parlor in which the ceremony took place remains unaltered. Most of the original pieces of furniture are yet in their places. In an interior room, appurtenanced as a private arsenal, still hang the massive flintlock blunderbusses and other weapons of early warfare. From here a door opens to the governor's council chamber. The walls of this famous apartment are covered with colonial bric-a-brac, including the ancestral warming pan. Adjoining this apartment is the billiard and music room, in which is the old-fashioned piano, or spinet, as it was then called.

OLD CHURCH, 1701.

This old manse of the Wentworths must be standing, or at least a portion of it, for a century and a half. An earlier settlement, though, than Portsmouth was made about nine miles from here on the Isle of Shoals. It was there that Capt. John Smith first set foot in making his early explorations, and the little seagirt neighborhood, treeless and almost verdureless, holds many traces of that ambitious man, besides the odd little monument erected there to his memory. Strange as it may seem, this bleak group of islands, soon after its discovery, became rapidly peopled, and it is affirmed that 500 inhabitants once had existence there. If one can take record from the shapes resembling graves, rudely marked by the rough island stones, the statement can't seem erroneous, but it appears in a different light when we wonder where the 500 found foothold at one and the same time, when now there seems scant soil for their graves.

The old stone church, erected in 1701, is one of the most appropriate monuments of the past. It contains records of all the early land grants, the census, etc., besides mention of the struggle to convert and educate the Indians, the perils of the colonial wars, and other facts that seem to us of this age as legendary as our fairy stories. At the breaking out of the revolution the inhabitants fled to the mainland for protection, and but few of the families ever returned to make the islands their place of abode.

On the movement of the settlement farther from the sea the people prepared to protect themselves from both encroachments of the Indians and from foreign invaders, so that the defensive institutions of early Portsmouth were both numerous and ample, and many old earthworks yet remain. These, however, are less attractive than the old stone and mortar ones—McClary and Constitution. McClary tops a lofty promontance of Kittery point, and dates back 200 years. The old block house—rebuilt for its preservation in 1845—is a point of no light interest. It was a model of protection in its day, built with a projecting upper story with loopholes arranged so that the garrison could fire down on the enemy in case of an attack, but now merely an æsthetic finish for the modern fort at its base.

Portsmouth possesses, beside all this, the oldest newspaper in the United States, called The New Hampshire Gazette, established in 1756. Its excellent harbor was early recognized, on account of the neighboring timber, as a rite for ship building. In 1690 the Falkland, fifty-four guns, was ordered built here by the British government. The Ranger, eighteen guns, Capt. Paul Jones, was also built here, under an order from the Continental congress. Even now it possesses a floating balance dry dock that cost our government about $1,000,000.

All told, there are few places on the continent that contain so many relics or subjects for reminiscences, nor is more worthy of visit by the summer tourist.

WILLIAM GILDER, journalist, Arctic voyager, and brother of the editor of the Century, is peculiarly interesting just now, writes a New York correspondent. He is about to set out again in search of the North Pole. He proposes to do it on his own hook. He asks no one to go with him, and he starts from this city entirely alone. Gilder may be theoretical, but he is also eminently practical. No man has had more experience in Arctic regions, and certainly no man has ever learned more by such experience. He spent two years with Schwatka in King William's Land in search of relics of the Franklin expedition, and he was on the Rogers when she was burned while she was seeking the Jeannette. He went across Siberia alone in the dead of winter, and telegraphed the first news of the destruction of the vessel to America. Gilder bases all his hopes of success on the Esquimaux. He lived with them on terms of perfect equality for two years, and he knows them thoroughly. He adopted their habits while living with them, eating walrus blubber, rubbing his body with oil and going for months without washing himself. The pores of the skin were thus kept closed, and he had no difficulty in keeping warm. The Esquimaux are kind, tractable, and exceeding hospitable. By adopting their suggestions and following their advice, Gilder and Schwatka traveled 3,251 miles in one sledge journey. The party withstood the lowest temperature ever experienced by explorers in the field. For sixteen days the thermometer was over 100 degrees below the freezing point. The party relied for food upon the exertions of the Esquimaux, and lived exclusively upon Esquimaux fare. Gilder became acclimated, and he speaks enthusiastically of his friends and associates among the tribes. His plan of operations is startling but plausible. He proposes to take with him 1,000 rounds of ammunition for breech-loaders and magazine guns and a small supply of rum and tobacco. He intends to take a passage on a Baffin's Bay whaler and land on King William's Land, where he will winter with the Esquimaux whom he left six years ago. He is satisfied that by the opening of the next summer he could organize a party who would be willing to follow him to Greenland in search of the pole. Lieutenant Lockwood, of Greely's party, went within 400 miles of the pole. He had no Esquimaux with him. Gilder is confident that with his tribe of Innuits he could reach the pole and return in eighty days from Greely's camp. He places his expenses at not more than $4,000. No more startling purpose in the way of exploration has been conceived since John Ledyard started to walk from New York to the Cape of Good Hope by the way of Behring's Straits.

THE man who probably claims the distinction of being the northernmost editor in the world is the printer and Esquimau poet, L. Moller, who edits the illustrated Esquiman paper, Atuagagdutit, published at Godthaab, a Danish colony on the west coast of Greenland, 64 degrees north latitude. This enterprising journalist joined the exploration of the interior of Greenland in order to be able to supply his paper with illustrated reports of the journey. Nordenskiold gives a portrait of Moller in his recently published work on Greenland, and the face looks remarkably intelligent and good-natured. His sketches, too, show considerable talent, being vivid and true to nature. The Esquiman editor is evidently an interesting man.

DANIEL R. ARNOLD is the station agent at Pawtucket. Recently the clerks and freight hands went to his office in a body, and the spokesman began a speech about the strikes out West and the relations of employers and employed, and was going on when Mr. Arnold very steruly and impatiently said: "State your grievance." The next moment he felt the cheapest of any man in New England, for the spokesman said the boys had come to make him a present on his fifty-seventh birthday. It was a nice present, but Mr. Arnold could hardly say "thank you." he was so surprised.

A Nashville Youth Mad With Jealousy.

Shoots His Sweetheart, Her Mother, two Admirers Then Fires Into Himself.

A Boy Shoots His Sister and is a Raving Maniac—Other Crimes.

FOUR PEOPLE SHOT.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 19.—P. H. Monahan was engaged to Miss Laura Carney and she recently broke the engagement. Last night Miss Carney and some neighbors were sitting in the parlor singing when Monahan entered the room with a pistol in his hand, and, without a word, shot Miss Carney in the head. He then shot John Rice, the ball striking him in the abdomen. He next shot Mrs. Carney through the arm and John Clap, who attempted to disarm him, received a bullet through the hand. Stepping in the hall he shot himself in the head. His own wound and that of Miss Carney are perhaps fatal.

Shot His Little Sister.

BANGOR, Me., July 19.—Henry, the fifteen-year-old son of James A. Bicknell, shot and killed his sister, aged thirteen, yesterday. Not knowing a gun was loaded he playfully pointed it at her, when it exploded. The boy was rendered insane by the terrible affair.

Rain in Kansas.

KINGSLY, Kas., July 16.—An abundant rain fall occurred this morning and apparently covered a broad area of country.

The drought in Kansas has been the most severe since 1873, the last general rain having fallen in June. A dispatch from Aberdeen, Dak., states that the Jim River valley was relieved by a heavy rain yesterday.

A Big Fire.

ST. LOUIS, July 19.—The large lumber yard of Knapp, Stout, & Co., was totally destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon and 25,000,000 feet of lumber consumed. The company's stables were also consumed. The loss on lumber alone reaches $400,000. The total insurance is estimated at $375,000.

The loss by fire in the terra-cotta works at Ravenswood, Long Island, amounts to $60,000 and nearly 200 men will be thrown out of employment.

From St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, July 19.—The money received by the Cherokees from the cattle men for grazing purposes is now being distributed at Tahlequah. It amounts to $300,000, each full-blood receiving $15.95. A claim for a share is made by colored residents and the Delaware and Shawnee Indians.

Rev. Sam Jones spoke yesterday to ten thousand persons at a camp-meeting at Maryville, Missouri.

A Lafayette Gambler's Crime.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., July 19.—Edward Houser, proprietor of the leading gambling house here, struck Charles Pritchard, a painter, on the back of the head with a beer mallet at Riverside park last night, inflicting a dangerous and probably fatal wound. The park was crowded with sports and women of easy virtue, and the trouble arose over one of these frail creatures. Houser escaped and has not yet been arrested.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The fortification appropriation bill which appropriates $620,000 for armament and repairs of the sea coast fortifications passed the house to-day. The senate took up the oleomargerine bill.

Marion will be lighted with electricity, the plant to be of the Thompson-Houston make.

OMAHA dispatch: Two years ago Nellie Pugh, a daughter of Senator Pugh of Alabama, was married to Albert Elliot. The couple came to Omaha and resided here some months and then went to Council Bluffs. During the time they lived in Omaha and Council Bluffs it is said the wife was treated brutally and well-nigh starved to death. Her husband, it is also said, by force and confinement prevented her from communicating with her father. A few days ago the wife accidentally obtained an audience with George Wright of Council Bluffs, to whom she told her story and applied for assistance. Mr. Wright telegraphed to Senator Pugh, who had been unable to find any clew to the whereabouts of his daughter. Yesterday Senator Pugh's son arrived at Council Bluffs and obtained admittance to his sister's house. With a drawn revolver he advanced upon the husband, who escaped through the back door and came to Omaha. Young Pugh has left for Alabama, accompanied by his sister and her little girl.

SENATORS BECK AND VOORHEES have taken Mr. Gordon into their brotherhood of practical jokers, says a Washington letter-writer. Mr. Pugh, of Alabama, is the latest victim of this brilliant combination. President Sherman has lately adopted the plan of calling the younger Senators to the chair when he desires to rest, in order to give them practice as presiding officers. Senator Pugh, of Alabama, had hardly taken the chair, when a page handed him a note. It informed him that as soon as Senator Logan, who was then speaking, sat down a complicated point of order would be raised. He was requested to hold the chair against all comers and decide in favor of his party. The result of the communication was appalling. The big, good-humored Alabamian began to grow pale and made covert motions to John Sherman in the hope that he would relieve him. It is impossible to imagine that Mr. Sherman was in the plot, but it was some time before the anxious Chairman could catch his eye. He came to the rescue, and the three jokers adjourned to the cloak-room to roll on the floor. Mr. Pugh left a line on the desk for Mr. Sherman, it is said, reading: "Please don't ask me again."

TWENTY-SIX years ago Joseph Loth was an invited guest when the Putnam Phalanx of Hartford visited the grave of Gen. Putnam. At that time a subscription paper was circulated to secure a fund to erect a monument over "Old Put's" grave, and Mr. Loth put down his name for $10. He heard no more about the monument until last week, when he read that it was about to be erected. Thereupon he made good his subscription by sending $10 to Adjutant Tyler, of the Putnam Phalanx.

JOHN CAROTHERS, while burning brush near Akron, O., caught his foot in a brush heap, and was in danger of being burned to death. His yells brought a man, who said: "Pay me the $5 you owe me and I'll help you out." Carothers insisted that he didn't owe any $5. "All right, burn then," said the man, and he walked away. Carothers then by frantic efforts released himself, but not before he was badly scorched.

Funeral Services Interrupted by Lightning.

NYACK, N. Y., July 19.—While the body of a young lady was being interred in Oak Hill cemetery, Rockland county, yesterday, a large tree standing near the grave was struck by lightning, causing a panic among the mourners, some of whom wept and prayed, while others rushed terror stricken from the spot. After awhile the interment proceeded with and the body was placed in the earth amid a terrible war of the elements.

Almost Burned Up.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A fire between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning, in a stationery store of Jesse Wolf, at 551 East Sixteenth street, occasioned great alarm in a four-story tenement house occupied by eight families, numbering about seventy people. Mrs. Moore fell from a fire escape and will probably die. Two children were rescued by policeman Cox, half suffocated.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Wheat, closed strong and higher; cash, 78c; August, 79c. Corn, a shade easier; cash, 38½c; August 39¼c. Oats, higher, at 29½c.

CHICAGO MARKET.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Wheat, a trifle better, but only moderately active; No. 2 red, August, 87½@87¾c. Corn, ½@¾c lower, and heavy. Oats, firm and quiet at 36@44c.

SINGULARLY enough, while the Government is active in its suppression of polygamy, it has not yet taken notice of the fact that for years Sitting Bull, the redoubtable Sioux chief, has lived with two wives. They are both shapely, good-looking squaws, and seem to be utterly free from jealousy, being jointly proud of their lord and master. The chief's children are petted just as much by one wife as the other.

Success attended her efforts, and after a time she purchased several more cows, all the time doing the work herself. After milking the cows she would prepare the milk for market and deliver it to customers. She invested the money as fast as she made it, and her investments proved so good that she was enabled to spend the latter part of her life in ease.

For all Diseases of the

Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. COMMON COUNCIL.

Proceedings of the Local Legislature in Regular Session.

REPORT OF CITY TREASURER.

I hereby report that I have paid to Charlotte Tuber the sum of $300 damages assessed to her on the widening of Brackenridge street. I have also made legal tender of $70 to Henry Horstmeyer for his damages, which tender has been refused and the money is in my possession now. I therefore ask for further instructions and the council to take such actions as are required by law.

HENRY C. BERGHOFF, City Treasurer.

Referred to city attorney.

REPORT OF TRUSTEES OF THE WATER WORKS.

The board of county commissioners have ordered us to remove the water mains which are laid across river bridge on west Main street. We respectfully ask that your honorable body condemn the grounds on each side of the river so that we may be able to carry out their instructions. The cost of making said change will be about one thousand dollars. As it is their desire that the work be done in the near future, we trust that you will give it your immediate attention.

Referred to committee on water works and city attorney.

Hereto attached is a communication from Rt. Rev. Joseph Dwenger, bishop of Fort Wayne, asking that the water main on Wells street be extended from Fourth street to Archer avenue.

C. MCCULLOUGH, T. B. HEDEKIN, JOHN F. W. MEYER, } Trustees.

Referred to committee on water works.

To the Honorable Trustees of the Fort Wayne Water Works.

Gentlemen: You are perfectly aware that I am building a large and beautiful orphan asylum in the north side of the city. I need not explain to you the noble object of the institution, neither is it necessary to point out to you the grandeur of the building as a public improvement. I would like to use the city water works in the building, when completed and ready for occupancy, which I expect will be about this time next year. I could not expect the city to extend the water mains on Wells street for the sole purpose of the new orphan asylum, but as a considerable number of our citizens live on Wells street, and west thereof; inasmuch as the city will be forced to extend said mains in the near future as a fire protection because the feeder is often nearly dry, and because the extension will be a public necessity. I most respectfully request your honorable body to take such steps as may be necessary for this extension. Respectfully submitted.

JOSEPH DWENGER, Bishop of Fort Wayne.

Following is the report of the financial operations of the water works department for month of June, 1886:

Referred to committee on Water Works.

REPORT OF STREET COMMISSIONER.

I wish to report as follows:

1st. The wooden top on the cistern on the corner of Pritchard and Rockhill is in a dangerous condition. I fenced it off from travel for fear of accident.

2d. In the matter of resolution of Councilman Woulfe in relation to the cleaning of the Baker street sewer between Fairfield avenue to the end of said sewer on the south line of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad, I would respectfully report that part of said sewer above named cannot well be cleaned until all that part of same sewer running south from the railroad through the open field is first cleaned out to give an outlet to the water remaining in the covered sewer. To do the latter work would require the labor I think of six or seven men perhaps ten days, or an expenditure of $80 or $100.

3d. I would recommend that the city lumber yard be fenced.

DENNIS O'BRIEN, Street Commissioner.

Referred to the committee on streets.

REPORT OF CITY CIVIL ENGINEER.

I will respectfully report that the Calhoun street improvement is not progressing satisfactory, very little if anything being done for the last two weeks. I have directed and urged the contractor, John A. Kuyler, to to proceed with the work, but without effect, and the work is yet at a stand still. All other contracts for sewers, sidewalks etc., are progressing.

J. S. GOSHORN, City Civil Engineer.

Referred to the committee on streets and city attorney.

REPORT OF CITY CIVIL ENGINEER.

In the matter of extending the Clinton street sewer from its outlet at the intersection with Duck street; thence via Duck street to the St. Mary's river, east, or to make the change on Superior street, and extend the Garden street sewer via Superior street and Lafayette street to the St. Marys river referred to me for estimated cash, etc., will report that the approximate estimate of the cost of a double ring brick sewer three (3) feet in diameter, on Duck street, from Clinton to Barr street, and enlarged at Barr street, so as to take the sewerage from the Barr street sewer to the St. Mary's river, total length of sewer, including Barr street connection, 695 lineal feet, approximate cost, $1,975. And for a sewer of the same dimensions, via Superior and Lafayette streets, with Barr street sewer connections, total length 762 feet, the cost of construction the same per lineal foot as that on Duck street, will approximate $2,011. Respectfully submitted.

J. S. GOSHORN, City Civil Engineer.

Referred to committee on sewers with instructions to make recommendations at the next regular meeting.

REPORT OF CITY WEIGHMASTER.

I respectfully report that I have collected and paid to the treasurer eighty-six dollars for the month of June, 1886.

PATRICK RYAN.

Referred to the committee on finance.

THE main purpose of a summer vacation, says the Baltimore American, is comfort, but comfort cannot be secured by several trunkfuls of new dresses and new millinery. Inordinate dressing may gratify a foolish vanity, but it will not secure physical pleasure or contentment. Of late years the best people have shown a wise determination to stop this silly display of fashion at summer resorts. The butterflies of fashion may still attempt to rival the lilies of the field and the rainbows of the sky in colors and combinations of color, but the people of common sense, of culture, and of refinement dress plainly and comfortably. When people go away on their annual holidays, therefore, they should take only what clothes they will need. Novices in travel are always known by the large amount of unnecessary baggage with which they burden themselves. Plain dressing has so many benefits that it is useless to mention them. Without it that free abandon, that careless, happy-go-lucky feeling which every summer health-seeker likes to experience, cannot exist. To a person dressed up like a fashion-plate, or to those who change their costumes three or four times a day—especially a hot day—complete happiness or comfort is out of the question. If you want to enjoy your vacation be sure not to overdress yourself.

A PROMINENT Western Senator went up to the White House as an escort of a Democratic leader of his State, says a Washington correspondent. In opening the conversation the leader began to say that he had been watching the development of the policy of the administration with great interest and anxiety, when the President interrupted him with the question: "And what do you think of it?" "I think you have pursued a wise and statesman-like course, Mr. President, a very wise and statesman-like course; but the time has come for you to take decided action, and go a little further and faster, Mr. President, a little further and faster." "What do you mean?" inquired the President. "I mean that you should show your Democracy and encourage the party by turning out more Republicans and appointing more Democrats to office. We hope to see you go a little further and faster in this direction, Mr. Cleveland, a little further and faster." "That is," responded the President, "you want me to appoint two horse thieves a day instead of one!" This shot the bull's-eye. The President had a good memory, and happened to recall, while he was listening to the counsel of the Western leader, that upon his recommendation he had appointed a man to office who afterward turned out to have been once convicted of stealing horses.

Is inseparably connected with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and is true of no other medicine. It is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy, while thousands testify to its superior blood-purifying and strengthening qualities. A bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 doses and will last a month, while others will average to last not over a week. Hence, for economy, buy only Hood's Sarsaparilla.

HEALTH AND STRENGTH REGAINED.

AND DEBILITATED MEN seeking health, strength and energy should avoid Drugs, secret medicines, etc., and send for "The Review," or "Health and Strength Regained," a large illustrated Journal published entirely for their benefit.

It treats on health, hygiene, physical culture, and medical subjects, and is a complete encyclopædia of information for suffering humanity afflicted with long standing, chronic, nervous, exhausting and painful diseases. YOUNG AND MIDDLE AGED MEN and others who suffer from nervous and physical debility, exhausted vitality, premature decline, etc., are especially benefitted by consulting its contents. Everything such sufferers wish to know is fully given in its pages. If in need of medical aid or counsel read it before "doctoring" or investing in medicines or appliances of any description and you will save time, money and disappointment. If using medicine or medical treatment of any kind, read it and learn the better way.

THE REVIEW exposes the frauds practised by quacks and medical impostors who profess to "practice medicine," and points out the only safe, simple and effective road to health, vigor and bodily energy.

Electric belts and all curative appliances are treated upon; all about them—which are genuine, which are bogus. Belts on thirty days' trial (?) and other fallacies reviewed. Thousands of dollars saved nervous-debility sufferers and others by the advice given. THE REVIEW is now in its ninth year of publication. Complete specimen copies mailed FREE.

THE STAGE.

Gossip and Gleanings About Plays, Play-Houses, and Players.

FACTS ABOUT MARY ANDERSON.

Joe Jefferson at His Southern Home—An Easily Amused Public—Thomas Doggett—Stage Gossip.

Facts About Mary.

A reporter who leaned over the desk in the Windsor rotunda was told that the "very English" young man lounging near him was Mr. Frank Griffin, half-brother of Miss Mary Anderson, the actress. He is a tall, slender young man, possibly 22 years of age, and in appearance not at all unlike Mr. Forbes-Robertson, Miss Anderson's leading man, as he looks when off the stage. He is tall and very slight, wearing his black hair rather long, and having a long face, a slender, aquiline nose, and a pair of burning black eyes. Mr. Griffin talked about Miss Anderson much as other brothers talk about their sisters.

"Has Miss Anderson bought a ranch in Colorado, Mr. Griffin?" asked the reporter.

"O! no indeed," replied Mr. Griffin. "What an absurd idea! Now what would Mamie want with a ranch, I should like to know?" (this with a long English drawl). "I presume that the wiseacres say that Mamie is buying the ranch, but it isn't the case. Why, I'm buying it myself, at least the 'Governor' is buying it for me, and it will be just the same as mine. Mamie has promised herself now to leave the stage for a year—retire, rest, and all that sort of thing, you know—but I don't believe she will. I've seen her try it before, and she rested just two weeks out of the year in which she had planned to do nothing. She is so active she can't quit work, and she studies half the time, and really works harder than is necessary."

"Do you think Miss Anderson is an enthusiast in her art?"

"Well, I presume that's what you would call it, and I know she had a hard enough struggle to get where she is. I tell you she made a big fight for her success. She went on the stage when she had never had but ten lessons, and worked herself up without much help. She is very industrious."

"Has she any decided tastes outside of her profession?"

"She plays very well; that is all she does, I believe."

"Miss Anderson is very religious, is she not?"

"Well, I should say she is," ejaculated Mr. Griffin. "All the family are afflicted with that malady except me."

"Seriously speaking, why don't Miss Anderson have any lovers?"

"Well, you see," said the young man, "Mamie never will look at a man unless he is twice the age of Methusaleh. No man would ever attract her unless he were some dusty old bookworm. She thinks all young men are necessarily fools. No, I think it would be impossible for Mamie to love any man."

"Miss Anderson is still young, is she not?"

"Mamie is 27 years old, and looks her age, every day of it. She has been on the stage eleven years, and has worked hard, as I said a minute ago.—Denver Tribune.

Thomas Doggett.

This actor, who was before the public from 1691 to 1712, was born in Castle street, Dublin, in 1670. He made his first theatrical attempt in his native city, but not meeting with much encouragement there, he came to England and joined a traveling company, from which he soon removed to London and established himself at Drury Lane. His admirable performance of Solon in Tom D'Urfey's "Marriage-Hater" first brought him into notice. Congreve wrote for him the parts of Fondlewife in "The Old Bachelor" and Ben in "Love for Love." When the new theater in Lincoln's Inn Fields was built and opened under the auspices of Betterton, Doggett withdrew from Drury Lane. He was a partner with Wilks and Cibber in Drury Lane, at which theater he acquired a great reputation. Although not a handsome man, his countenance was animated and agreeable. Tony Aston describes him as a little, lively, spract man." Colley Cibber says that as an actor he was the most original, and the strictest observer of nature, of all his contemporaries. "He borrowed from none of them; his manner was his own; he was a pattern to others, whose great merit was that they had sometimes tolerably imitated him." In dressing a character to the utmost exactness he could be remarkably skillful; the least article of whatever habit he wore served in some degree to speak and mark the different humor he presented. A particular account of his dress in the part of Moneytrap in "The Confederacy" has been recorded. In this admirable representation of an old debauched usurer, he is said to have worn a threadbare, black coat, to which he had put new cuffs, pocket-lids, and buttons on purpose to make the rustiness of the coat the more apparent; the neck was stuffed to make him appear round-shouldered and give his head the greater prominence; and his square-toed shoes were large enough to buckle over those he generally wore so that his legs appeared much smaller than usual. He could be extremely ridiculous without stepping into the least impropriety to do so. His greatest success was in characters taken from low life. In the singing of humorous songs he had no competitor, and, says Aston, "he danced the 'Cheshire boards' full as well as the famous Captain George."

Mr. Jefferson at Home.

The following from a Mississippi paper will be read with interest:

On an island of many thousand acres of level land, spreading out, as it seems to the eye, to the very verge of the horizon; with placid lakes and orange groves and nectarines and figs, with other fruits of the tropics, lives Joe Jefferson, old "Rip Van Winkle," who once lived at Grand Gulf, Miss., long before he owned his trusty gun or his faithful dog Snyder.

We had a conversation with our venerable lady friend, Mrs. Sarah K. Sevier, a day or so ago, during which she gave us an interesting sketch of her late journey among friends in Louisiana. She met many who were once accustomed to walk the shady avenues of our little town, and all of them inquired after the old place with affectionate interest.

Among the many she met was our once dear old neighbor and friend, Mrs. Dr. Abbay, and the jolly little Major, Dr. Sid.

She paid a visit to Orange Island, the elegant retired home of "Old Rip Van Winkle," Joe Jefferson, and was delighted with the intelligent and affable owner of the 8,000 acres of splendid landscapes and orange groves who is happy for having made everybody else happy. He brought out his aged wines, which our old prohibition friend might have barely tasted just to see how wine a century old "did" taste. In parting, our always thoughtful friend, said: "Mr. Jefferson, I would like to invite you to visit Port Gibson, but it's too small a place to be of interest to you." "Not so, madame," said Old Rip. "I have been in Port Gibson, and I lived a year when a boy at Grand Gulf with my mother." When the final parting took place our lady friend, who is always ready to talk religion, said: "Well, Mr. Jefferson, we shall not meet again on earth; I hope we'll meet in heaven." "Oh, yes, madam," said Old Rip! "I'll be certain to be there. We're bound to meet in heaven." Imagine the twinkle in Old Rip's eye. Our venerable lady friend said on leaving him: "Well, sir, I have never been a theater-goer, but I can say that I have conversed with two of the greatest actors of this or any age." "Ah," said Mr. Jefferson, "and who were they?" "One," she said, "was the elder Booth—the other, Mr. Joe Jefferson," and the tete-a-tete ended.

An Easily Amused Public.

Said J. W. McAndrews, the "Watermelon Man": "It is funny how the public cling to certain performers on the stage and to certain acts. They have compelled me to keep on doing my watermelon act ever since May 18, 1866. I produced it then at Cincinnati, when I was with Dan Bryant. I had been pretty hard run to find something new, and hit upon the idea of representing an old negro watermelon man I used to know in Louisville, who occasionally had a load of 'Barcarlingoes' on the levee, which he sold. I had a pretty fair idea of what I wanted to do, but couldn't get any plot—any way of getting on or off the stage. So I consulted my wife, who told me to just go on and holler, and make a fool of myself generally, and when I got through to come off the best way I could. I followed her advice, and the act was a great success—so great, in fact, that the people haven't got tired of it yet, and I have been doing it for twenty years. It once ran at the same theater in New York, night after night, for three and a half years."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Stage Gossip.

FRANK MAYO will not confine his efforts to "Nordeck" alone next season, but will also produce the "Three Guardsmen," himself appearing as D'Artagnan.

ROLAND REED denies the rumor that he will tour the country next season in comic opera. Notwithstanding his success in the "Bridal Trap," he will do only "Cheek" and "Humbug," which he says the people want.

CHARLES POPE has been threatened with a law suit by the owners of McCullough's version of the "Gladiator" if he puts that play in his repertoire next season. Mr. Pope claims his version to be that used by Salvini.

LOUIS JAMES will produce "Virginius" at McVicker's Theater, Chicago, in August, and will endeavor to make that play his "piece de resistance." McCullough's successor in that character has not as yet been found, and Mr. James may be the man.

That Tired Feeling

The warm weather has a debilitating effect, especially upon those who are within doors most of the time. The peculiar, yet common, complaint known as "that tired feeling," is the result. This feeling can be entirely overcome by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives new life and strength to all the functions of the body.

"I could not sleep; had no appetite. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling; and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, Ohio.

Strengthen the System

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Fruit House Bulletin

Great Reduction in Prices for 1886.

Goods are so low now that it can hardly be expected that there will be any further decline, so that those laying in full supplies will not likely be disappointed.

Coffee Down 2c, Tea Down 10c, Sugars Cown 1-2c, Syrups Down 10c, Turkish Prunes Down 1c.

Best Rio Coffee down to 10c a pound; good Rio coffee down to 8c a pound; best Roasted Rio down to 12½c a pound; Government Java, 30c.; Roasted Java 25c.

TEAS Reduced in Proportion.

s no mole a luxury to buy Teas. When they were $1 and $2 per pound then of course the consumption of them was small, but now the price is so low that a good Tea can be bought at 20c per pound then they come within the reach of all.

We are enable d to sell so low simplS in consequence of our immense trade. At times we sell two and three chests daily, and buying direct of the importers and selling direct to the consumers, enables us to save our customers the profits of the jobber, speculator and wholesale merchant which is at least 10 to 20 per pound.

Young Hyson, good, 20c; choice, 30c; best 50c; Gunpowder, good, 30c; choice, 40; best 50c; Oolong or Black Tea 20c; choice, 30c; best 50c; Japan Tea, uncolored, 35c; choice, 40; best 50c; English Breakfast, good, 20c; best 50c per pound.

SUGARS---White and Yellow, Down 1-2c.

Choice Yellow, 5½c.; Best Extra C, 6c.; Coffee A, Standard, 6½c.; Crushed and Powdered 7½c.; Cut Loaf and Granulated, 7½c.

Syrups Reduced 10c a Gal.

Best Golden Drip, 40c per gallon; best Sorghum, 40c per gallon; best New Orleans, Molasses, 30c.

SMOKED MEATS AND PICKLED PORKS.

Best sugar cured hams, 12c per pound; Sugar cured shoulders, 8c per pound; Pickeled pork 6c per pound; Breakfast bacon, best, 9c per pound.

Animals that would make Barnum turn green with envy skipped before Sweeney's mind. He thought Englert had scales on, and Englert thought so too, for he begged for "der Lord's sake to take him out." Sweeney has had the delirium tremens seven times.

The Gazette seems to think that because we are advocating the enforcement of the cow ordinance, we are sitting down on the laboring man. Nothing of the kind. We think the laboring man is just as good as anybody, but no better. We are all laboring at something and should all stand on an equal footing. The cow ordinance as passed by the council is right and should be protected. We want no "monkeying with the band wagon" in this case. Open the door one foot to those men who are running dairies in our midst, and in a short time our streets will be crowded with cows.

Mr. C. A. Bookwalter is now foreman and telegraph editor of the Gazette.

TWO ROBBERIES.

A Thieving Clerk at the Oliver House—Patrick Coolican Robbed.

Sunday morning a young man named Scanlon, of Toledo, adjourned to the Oliver House for breakfast. He handed the clerk, Elmore McCartney, a twenty dollar bill and the assistant host went out to get change. The youth fled up an alley way and his flight must have been premeditated, as he took a watch chain and other trinkets with him. Mike Wickliffe made good Scanlon's loss and sent an officer after McCartney, who walked to Adams station and was booked for Lima, Ohio. The young fellow used to be a cow boy, but of late has worked for ex-Sheriff John McCartney, out in the country.

A sneak thief got into the residence of Patrick Coolican, in the sixth ward, Saturday night and stole about ten dollars. Other houses in the neighborhood were entered but nothing is missing.

POLICE COURT.

The Celebrities Who Were Arraigned Before the Mayor.

There was a mammoth police court this morning and some twenty-five offenders were present in person or in bondle, to answer Mayor Muhler's roll call. The interest of the sporting fraternity was elicited, from the fact that Capt. Hugh M. Diehl and a posse raided two gambling houses, of the second class variety, Saturday night Captain Diehl stepped into a gaming room over Fred. Meyer's saloon at 104 Calhoun street. Twelve young men were playing poker and there was a sensation, to say the least, when the chief said, "Come gentlemen, I want you." The fellows are well known about town and eight of them put up money.

Last night Captain Diehl strolled into a parlor over the Crystal Palace saloon and found four men at a social game of poker. They effected great indignation, but three of them "put up." This room is kept by Sam Bune, over C. W. Kline's saloon. The latter gentlemen will be arrested for keeping and renting a gambling room.

Max Staup and Chas. Bender had a fight at the English Kitchen Sunday morning and after a few neat rounds, fled at the approach of Officer O'Connell, who has their hats as a trophy of the chase.

This is the program of the morning and is verbatim from the records:

George Englert—drunk—Meyer.
John Deam—drunk—Humbrecht.
James O'Shaughnessy—drunk—Humbrecht.
Ben F. Breman, Oscar Harris, Geo. Mason, Wm. Brooks, Chas. Long, Fred Walters, Frod Harrison, James Steadly, Charles Farrell, Chas. Silvers, Chas. Waltman and John White gamblers at the Ferd Meyers room.
John Doe, Geo. Johnson, Justice Brown and Chas. Shaffer gambling at the Cristal Palace rooms.
Fred Engleking—drunk—O'Connell.
John Morgan—vagrant—Limecooly.
Denny Ryan—drunk—Fuchshuber.
Tom Martin—drunk—Fuchshuber.

Justice France fined Clara Bogus for provoke on the Nicholson woman, and Kate Broekelman paid $11.50 for provoke and then Constable Cook closed the festivities by arresting Ellen Cook for provoke on Mary Hedges. This is a sixth ward quarrel and Justice France smiles as he hears the women rip characters straight up and down.

The most stubborn and distressing cases of dyspepsia yield to the regulating and toning influences of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Try it.

On July 19, 20 and 21 and July 27, 28, 29, 30 and 31, the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad will sell cheap excursion tickets to Bay View, Mich., and return for $10. Tickets good to return until August 10. R. B. ROSSINGTON, Agent.

EXPRESS ROBBERIES.

How the Famous Trial in Fort Wayne was Won.

Cincinnati Enquirer:—"That express robbery is as much a mystery as ever," remarked Mr. J. C. Stainton, agent of the United States Express company "and as far as I know the company has never obtained a clue to the missing $10,000. The suit which the Van Wert bank has brought against us may bring something to light. It is to be hoped that the company will not lose this case, as it did in the celebrated Bluffton case, where $5,000 was lost between the First National bank of this city and the Bluffton, Ind., bank, tried at Fort Wayne, to which it was consigned. In that case judgment was given against the company because a young man at Muncie, Ind., who handled the package, could not account for a rather large sum of money which he was known to have invested about the time the $5,000 was lost. His name was Ritchie, and he was the transfer man at Muncie. He did not have the package in his possession five minutes, and the company knew that he could not have tampered with it if he had wanted to, but on the trial it was proved that he had been investing money in rather larger sums than he was supposed to possess, and when he was put upon the witness-stand he could not tell where the money came from. This suspicious circumstance was sufficient for the jury and a judgment was given in favor of the bank. It was not until several years afterward when a settlement had been made with the bank that Ritchie told how he got the money. He had a friend, a rich young fellow about Muncie, who was very much embarrassed by the importunities of a young girl whom he had wronged. She demanded reparation by marriage, and he, not wishing to make such an alliance, went to Ritchie and asked him to arrange a settlement. The expressman assented, and, after several visits to the girl, assured his friend that the best terms he could obtain were $3,000 cash. After some hesitation the rich young man assented to a compromise on that basis, and turned over the $3,000 to Ritchie, who it seems handed over $600 to the girl and pocketed the difference. When he was called upon to explain where he got the money which he had been investing, he could not do so without betraying his own perfidy and at the same time exposing his friend, who had, since the settlement with the girl, married a most estimable young lady. Thus his trickery was the cause of the company losing the suit."

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS — THE BEST TONIC.
